

SAINT JOSEPH CABINETRY & DESIGNS

July 2007 Cabinetry Design of the Month

‘Elegant kitchen compliments resort-style living’

Ginny and Jim Glenning thought they might be ready to downsize from their Naperville home, but when they found their dream home in a lakeside resort-style community in Plainfield, they decided they didn't want to downsize, they wanted a new lifestyle. Their new home, with its compact floor plan, offers panoramic views of the lake, their own private dock, and convenience and low-maintenance. All they needed to make it perfect was a dream kitchen, courtesy of St. Joseph Cabinetry & Designs.

“Our builder said we could choose the company we wanted to do our cabinetry, and I chose St. Joseph,” Ginny says. “Our designer, Rosie Millen, is someone I've known for many years, and she did a beautiful job for us. I told her what I had in mind, and she put it together.” “Ginny had begun looking at townhomes several years ago, and found one kitchen look that she especially liked. “It had dark wood floors, off-white cabinetry with a chocolate glaze, and dark granite countertops,” she says. “I never had deep colors in my other home and to me it feels very warm and inviting.” Ginny says their new home is a perfect fit for them, a vacation-style way of living that they love, and their new kitchen and entertainment area enhances that lifestyle.

St. Joseph also provided the cabinetry for the Glennings bathrooms and a lower level entertainment area. Downstairs, with its walk-out glass doors to the lake and dock, is where the Glennings do most of their entertaining. For this area, Ginny says, they wanted a more casual look. They chose Haas colonial cherry cabinetry with glass doors. “Rosie measured the model home, and then drew everything out on a computer, so that we could see how everything would fit together,” Ginny says. “I knew what I wanted overall, but she gave us suggestions. I just love the openness of the kitchen and how it all flows together. It's the kitchen I wanted, and we just really love it.” Ginny says she especially likes the curio corner cabinet with glass door that Rosie suggested, where she stores her treasured glass and dinnerware.

The St. Joseph designer chose Haas cabinetry with a Charleston door style featuring roped molding and a painted finish with mocha glazing. “The Glennings were focusing on functionality,” Rosie Millen says. “Although their new kitchen area was smaller than their previous home's, they didn't want to give up storage or work space.”

“Our Designer , Rosie Millen, is someone I've known for many years and she did a beautiful job for us. I told her what I had in mind, and she put it together.”

— Ginny Glenning

www.stjosephdesigns.com

entertainment area. Downstairs, with its walk-out glass doors to the lake and dock, is where the Glennings do most of their entertaining. For this area, Ginny says, they wanted a more casual look. They chose Haas colonial cherry cabinetry with glass doors. "Rosie measured the model home, and then drew everything out on a computer, so that we could see how everything would fit together," Ginny says. "I knew what I wanted overall, but she gave us suggestions. I just love the openness of the kitchen and how it all flows together. It's the kitchen I wanted, and we just really love it."

Ginny says she especially likes the curio corner cabinet with glass door that Rosie suggested, where she stores her treasured glass and dinnerware. In the lower cabinet area, a lazy susan was removed and replaced with stationary shelving that Ginny says offers much more space to store cookware.

The St. Joseph designer chose Haas cabinetry with a Charleston door style featuring roped molding and a painted finish with mocha glazing. "The Glennings were focusing on functionality," Rosie Millen says. "Although their new kitchen area was smaller than their previous home's, they didn't want to give up storage or work space."